There's a port Bran-dy on a west-ern bay, and it serves a hun-dred ships a day; Lone-ly wears a braid-ed chain, made of fin-est sil-ver from the north of Spain. A sail - ors lock - et pass the time a - way and talk a - bout their homes. There's a He that bears the name of the man that Bran - dy loves.

girl came night in this har - bor town — and she works lay - ing whis - key down — They say on a sum - mer's day — Bring - ing gifts from — far a - way — But he when the bars close down, — Bran - dy walks thru a si - lent town — and —

"Bran - dy, fetch an - oth - er round," she serves them whis - key and wine. The sail - ors say made it clear — he could - n't stay, — no har - bor was his home. The sail - ors say loves a man — who's not a - round, — She still can hear him say, She hears him say;

1 "Bran - dy, you're a fine — girl, — what a good wife — you would be; — Your —
 "Bran - dy, you're a fine — girl, — what a good wife — you would be; — but my
